

Nationwide Rail Strike Believed Near

CHICAGO (AP)—A nationwide railroad strike and quick White House intervention appeared possible today after the collapse of railroad-union negotiations on the featherbedding issue.

Just 90 minutes after Wednesday's bargaining session opened, a conference of representatives of the five operating labor unions and the railroads broke down.

H.E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, said the carrier representatives walked out of the meeting.

James E. Wolfe, chief management negotiator, said: "I don't think that anybody walked out. We told them we were disappointed and that we thought they were stalling."

Wolfe announced that the railroads will act as soon as possible to make sweeping changes in the work rules to eliminate what they call featherbedding. The carriers first notified the unions of the changes in 1959.

The unions, representing 200,000 members, have stated that such action would trigger a strike.

Wolfe said the breakdown in negotiations, the third, should lead to a fact-finding board by President Kennedy, which would delay any strike for at least 60 days.

At stake are 65,000 jobs and $600 million a year.

The two sides appeared to be separated on ground rules. The railroads wanted to conduct the talks within the framework of the presidential railroad commission report of Feb. 28, 1962. This report accepted some of management's demands, and management accepted the report. The unions wanted bargaining to include their proposals.

The commission recommended elimination of the jobs of 48,000 firemen on diesel locomotives, yard and freight service. The remaining jobs involve other workers.

The unions—engineers, firemen, trainmen, brakemen and switchmen—rejected the report and tried to stop the rules revisions in the courts.

The U.S. Supreme Court upheld on March 4 management's right to make the changes. However, the rewriting of rules cannot be done until the court mandate is received later this month.

Patmos, Spring Hill Visited by Hope Group

Man Convicted of Murder

HARRISBURG, Ark. (AP)—A Poinsett Circuit Court jury deliberated only 25 minutes Wednesday before convicting Raymond White, 36, of Trumann of first degree murder in the slaying of his wife.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

White's wife was stabbed to death last June 3. Trumann Police Chief Edgar Sullins said the stabbing occurred in a house owned by Mrs. White's father and followed an argument the two had in a tavern.

White testified Wednesday he committed the slaying. He said he had been drinking heavily and had blackouts during the time of the stabbing.

Yesterday Hope businessmen and citizens, about 40, paid a visit to Patmos and Spring Hill in the second of a series of good-will visitations planned by the Chamber of Commerce.

Appeal Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court has received an appeal to a court decision changing the mayor-council form of government at Newport to the city-manager form.

Both sides challenged the legality of an Aug. 21, 1962 election to decide the form of government for the city.

China, Russia to Meet Talk Over Troubles

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Red China has agreed to meet a Soviet delegation to thrash out ideological differences splitting the two nations and has called a truce in the war of words between Peking and Moscow.

But the Chinese insisted their hard line against the West still is the correct Communist policy. They also stood by demands that the Kremlin drop talk of peaceful coexistence, abandon its championship of the Yugoslav Communists and make up with Albania.

Replying to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal for a reconciliation meeting of Soviet and Chinese leaders, the Chinese Communist party and Chairman Mao Tse-tung in a letter made public Wednesday invited Khrushchev to stop in Peking during a trip he is expected to make to Cambodia this spring.

The Chinese said if that is not convenient, the Soviet Communist party can send a delegation to Peking "headed by another responsible comrade, or we can send a delegation to Moscow." Mao said nothing about going to Moscow himself.

Moscow announcements of the Chinese invitation gave no indication that Khrushchev will go to Peking.

Peking said it will stop immediately "the publication of our replies in the press to open and direct attacks on the communist party of China from comrades of the Soviet Communist party and other Communist parties."

The Chinese reserved the right to reply to future attacks and said in their previous blasts they had been defending themselves against attack.

The Chinese also stated, in apparently unchanged terms, their no-compromise line on the proper Marxist-Leninist way to overthrow capitalism and imperialism. Struggle is the answer they said, not Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence and competition.

Gambling Issue Is Revived

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An anti-gambling resolution was introduced in the Arkansas Senate today to replace a similar house measure tabled Tuesday on a motion by Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs.

The Senate resolution was sponsored by Sens. Jim Raney of Warren and Charles George of Cabot. Raney attempted to take from the table Wednesday a resolution by St. Francis County Rep. O. P. Hammons.

Raney said that he had been "out in the hall" when the vote was taken on Hurst's motion to table.

George said that he had attempted to get a roll call on the motion but had been sitting in the back of the chamber and apparently was overlooked.

The resolutions, both outgrowths of a fight for a gambling bill in the House, urge all officials to enforce gambling laws.

State Legislature Adjourns With No Major Action

By JOHN R. STARR and GEORGE F. BARTSCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A move to get a voter registration bill through the 1963 legislature died quietly in the Senate today as the general assembly ended its session at noon.

The obituary for the voter registration law was a filibuster by Sen. Max Howell on another bill which would have redefined the state's primary election laws.

But the voter registration bill was killed when the Senate refused to suspend its rules to permit it to be read a second and third times and passed today.

Sen. Tom Allen of Brinkley set up the situation by objection to a second reading of the bill Wednesday.

This made it impossible for the bill to pass without a rules suspension which would require a two-thirds majority vote.

The 60-day session was marked by signal success of Gov. Orval E. Faubus' Legislative program. All 12 of the major proposals he made in his inaugural address were approved, although one of them—insurance investment—got through the House under a cloud.

Howell's filibuster was designed to block Senate action on an anti-gambling resolution introduced earlier today by Sens. Charles George of Cabot and Jim Raney of Warren.

The filibuster lasted for 55 minutes and removed any possibility of the Senate's changing its mind about acting on the voter registration bill.

The House finished its serious business at 11:30 and spent the remaining half hour in horseplay. It considered briefly but did not vote on a bill to abolish Perry County, home of Rep. Paul Van Dalsem.

Van Dalsem, purportedly speaking against the bill, remarked that this was the best of the 12 legislative sessions he had served in.

"This is the first time we have come up to the closing hour without a lot of work to do," Van Dalsem said.

McNamara Is Not a Giant With Congress

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—To Congress, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is looking less like a giant these days.

And to McNamara, Congress is becoming more of a hairsplitter. The congressional disenchantment, which started setting in a year ago, is growing deeper in the dispute between McNamara and Congress over defense spending and award of a multibillion dollar plane contract.

So far, McNamara has won every major clash—and probably not many smart betting men would wager against the powerful defense secretary in the current row over the TFX fighter plane.

But in the future, the onetime (Ford) motor company executive may have to work harder to get his proposals through Congress.

McNamara is being called a know-it-all who is trying to become a single chief of staff by overriding professional military advice. Congressmen who so describe him are giving voice to views held by many uniformed officers.

In return, McNamara is accusing congressional critics—there are Republicans and Democrats among them—of disservice to the country in challenging the effectiveness of U.S. intelligence and irresponsibility in urging budget cuts while voting to increase defense spending.

Informed sources indicate McNamara has become increasingly annoyed by a combination of events.

One is the Senate investigation of award of a potential $6.5 billion Continued on Page Two

Huge Military Spending Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has passed the biggest military buying bill in history—a $15.8-billion authorization for aircraft, missiles and ships.

The measure goes beyond the administration's wishes and those of Republicans bent on cutting the budget.

The $663.7 million tacked on by the Armed Services Committee to build an extra pair of RS70 reconnaissance strike planes touched off most of the controversy before the bill was passed Wednesday on a 374-33 roll call vote.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara doesn't want to build any more than the three RS70s already authorized, but in a separate vote on the issue the House backed the committee 228 to 179. This puts the RS70 controversy up to the Senate, which gets the bill now.

Rep. Thomas C. Curtis, R-Mo., sponsored a GOP bid for an across-the-board slash in defense authorizations. Curtis sought a 5 per cent reduction in each procurement authorization, and a 12½ per cent cut in the research and development category.

His motion was defeated on a 268 to 149 roll call, largely along party lines.

Republicans have said President Kennedy's $98.8-billion budget can be slashed by $5 billion to $15 billion.

The procurement bill authorizes purchase of 3,000 aircraft, about 60,000 missiles and 43 new naval vessels. It also authorizes conversion work to modernize 35 old ships.

U.S. Denies Ships Fired on Trawler

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department has denied a Soviet charge that three American warships fired on a Soviet trawler last Friday.

Six Navy destroyers fired gunnery exercises in the area—70 miles east of Norfolk, Va., but the nearest surface ship was 12 miles away, five miles beyond the destroyers' maximum anti-aircraft range, said a statement issued Wednesday night by the State Department.

The surface ship was not identified and a spokesman said he did not know if it was a Soviet vessel.

In its protest the Soviet Union said two cruisers and a destroyer fired dummy—nonexplosive—shells near a Soviet ship. This, said Moscow, was "an act of sheer wantonness which could have grave consequences."

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said he did not know whether the anti-aircraft shells fired by the destroyers were dummies or live ammunition. A formal reply to Moscow's protest along the lines of Wednesday night's statement will be made, he said.

The statement described the location as "an established and recognized U.S. Navy operations area."

Terrorists Busy in Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Terrorists were busy again in Venezuela Wednesday night. Communists and Castroites were blamed.

One band blew up transformers carrying electricity to five communities on the coast southwest of Caracas.

Another group bombed a cooking oil factory in Valencia, knocking out 40 per cent of the machinery. No one was injured. A university student was arrested.

Troops guarded the 24,727-ton tanker Esso Maracaibo after the National Liberation Front sent letters to the Creole Petroleum Corp. Threatening to hijack the ship as they did the government-owned freighter Anzoategui last month. The tanker is waiting to take on cargo at Lake Maracaibo.

TFX fighter contract to General Dynamics Corp. over the Boeing Co. McNamara has strongly implied the investigation is distorted and said it has "needlessly undermined public confidence in the integrity and judgment" of top Pentagon officials.

A second reported factor is the recent statement by House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana that the defense budget could be cut about $3 billion—some $1 billion per service—and conflicting action by another GOP leader, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois.

On Tuesday, Arends accused McNamara of acting like a dictator and called the defense chief "I got all the answers McNamara."

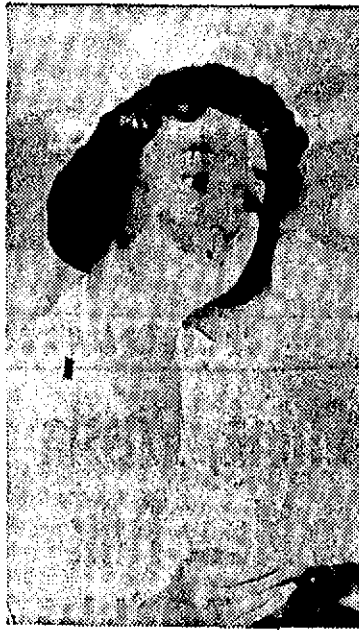

McNamara teed off on Arends before the advertising council Wednesday, accusing him of supporting "irresponsible action in adding over $1 billion to the budget that is not needed" and of criticizing "the responsible official (McNamara) who took out the bill."

McNamara acknowledged that in a sense he acted as a dictator in chopping $14 billion from budget requests submitted by the services before the final $51 billion in defense money requests went to Capitol Hill.

Arends read about this and rushed to the House floor. He declared the House Armed Services Committee, where he sits as senior Republican, would choose the "considered judgment" of the Joint Chiefs of Staff over what he called "the arbitrary decisions" of McNamara.

front of the Van Dalsem bill by objecting to a second reading of it Wednesday. The Senate sustained his objection carrying the second reading over until today.

It could be read the second and third times and passed but only if Allen withdrew his objection or the Senate changed its mind about suspending the rules.

The way to blocking the bill was opened Tuesday when, through accident, it was not read in the Senate after it passed the House. If it had been read Tuesday it could have been ready for a vote today despite Allen's objections.

After half an hour of parliamentary maneuvering by opponents and proponents, the House voted 57-32 to delay action on the bill indefinitely. Mrs. Doris McCauley of Monroe County, handling the bill for Allen, said she would not try to bring it up again.

Allen said he objected to sections of the Van Dalsem bill which require that registration records be kept by party. This provision was inadvertently left in the bill when the House struck a party loyalty requirement by amendment.

The House did not dilly-dally Wednesday with a Senate bill which would have levied a $1 per capita tax on every Arkansas resident over 21.

Proponents of the measure, which carried an administration label, argued that it was designed only to keep the present poll tax in force and was not a new tax.

House speaker Marion Crank, on advice of parliamentarian Neil Bohlinger, agreed and ruled that the bill would need only 51 votes to pass instead of the 75 normally needed by a new tax measure.

The question was moot. The bill got only 10 votes to 74 against it.

The House passed and sent to the governor an administration bill setting truck speed limits at 10 miles an hour lower than the posted legal limit for automobiles. This would make the truck limit 50 miles an hour on most highways and 60 miles an hour on interstate roads.

Prodded by administration forces, the House rescued a banking bill from the table and passed it 66-22.

The bill would require branch teller windows operated in one city by a bank in another city to close if residents of the branch bank city organize their own bank.

With some difficulty and belated votes from Rep. Michael Wornack of Franklin County and Crank, the administration rounded up the 67 votes needed to get the measure off the table. Gov. Orval E. Faubus' legislative leaders and aides worked the House vigorously for several hours before the matter came up.

Craighead County Rep. Norman Wimpy got the bill tabled Tuesday by arguing that it would affect only a teller window operated by the Bank of Monette at Caraway in Craighead County.

Proponents of the bill said it could affect many communities which might want to organize banks but could not meet competition from teller windows.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor House bills to: Require correspondence schools to get approval of the state Board of Education before they can advertise in Arkansas.

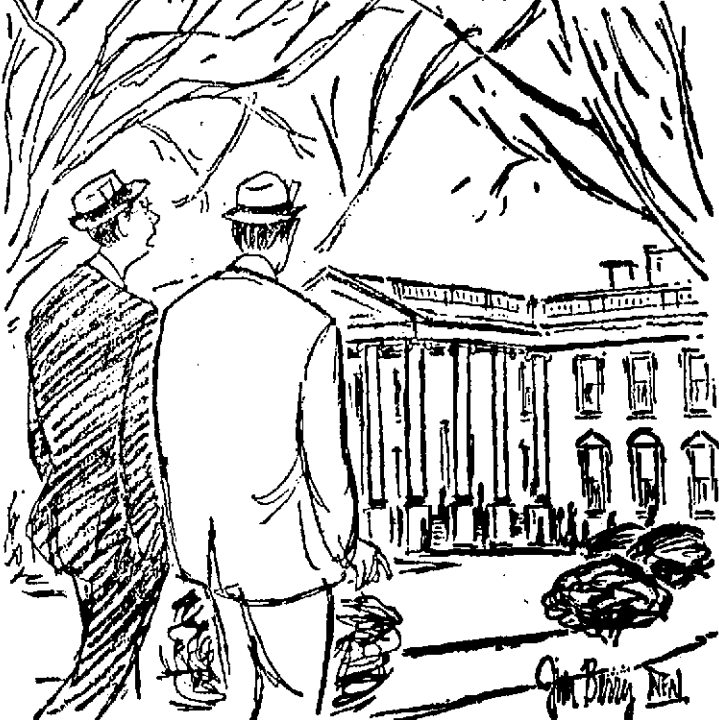

Create a Capitol Grounds Commission to supervise construction and parking at the capitol.

Renamed the four state training schools to remove any reference to race so the schools will be eligible for any federal aid which may become available.

The Senate defeated House bills to increase fines for traffic offenses, require screening of automobile graveyards located on a U.S. highway and to permit growing school districts to collect state aid on a basis of current attendance rather than the previous year's attendance.

Senate bills passed by the House included measures to: Provide that farms land annexed by cities shall continue to be assessed as agricultural property until it is put to another use. Make child abandonment by a

Fire Destroys Poultry Plant

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Fire destroyed the Valley Farm Products egg and poultry processing plant in North Little Rock's downtown area today.

Flames tore through the two-story corrugated iron building for three hours before they were brought under control. The fire got so hot the iron roof melted and collapsed in the rear of the building.

Thousands of cardboard egg cases fed the flames. Ralph Alford, plant manager, said damage would be in "five figures" but he said he could not estimate how much. There were $15,000 worth of eggs in one cooler, he said.

The fire started in the rear of the building where the egg cartons were stored. Cause of the fire was not learned.

Forrest City Gets Huge New Plant

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) —

The Warwick Mfg. Co. announced today it will build a $2,250,000 plant here which ultimately is expected to employ more than 1,000 workers in making television sets.

Production is expected to begin in April, next year, with 500 employees. W. W. Campbell, vice chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, predicted Forrest City's 1,544 population would double within five to seven years after production begins.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus said last week that the biggest industry yet to come to Arkansas would be announced this week. The Norge Division of Borg-Warner in Fort Smith employs almost 2,000 but the Warwick plant may grow.

Warwick is based in Niles, Ill. L. G. Haggerty, president of the firm, said the new plant is designed to meet increased production demands that cannot be met in existing facilities.

Forrest City voters will be asked to approve a bond issue under Act 9 of 1959 to finance construction of the plant. No taxes will be levied and bonds will be retired by lease payments.

Construction of the plant is expected to begin as soon as the bond issue is approved. A date for the election has not been set.

Haggerty said the plant would employ 1,000 by the end of 1964.

The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission said Forrest City residents raised $200,000 to pave a road to the plant, pave a parking lot, extend a railroad spur to the plant and landscape the grounds.

The plant will be located on 150 acres in the Forrest City industrial complex on state highway 1 north of the city. The Forrest City Chamber of Commerce and the city's industrial development commission will provide the land.

Negotiations with Warwick have been under way for two years. Plans for a labor survey in a 30-mile radius of Forrest City are underway, the AIDC said. Both men and women will be employed.

California Lawmaker Dies at 75

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep.

Clyde Doyle, D-Calif., acting chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, died unexpectedly in his sleep early today. He was 75.

The veteran congressman who was serving his ninth term had been active in congressional work in recent days. Only Wednesday night he and Mrs. Doyle had attended an American Legion banquet.

He was found dead in his bed in his home in Arlington, Va., by Mrs. Doyle at 1:30 a.m.

Doyle represented California's 23rd District—a portion of Los Angeles County. He was the ranking Democratic member of the Un-American Activities Committee and recently had been serving as its acting chairman because of the illness of the chairman, Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa. He also was a ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee.

Doyle had been a lawyer for many years in Long Beach before he first was elected to Congress in 1944. There was a two-year gap, in the early '40s, in his service record.

News Strike Is Voted at Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP)—The Memphis Newspaper Guild voted by secret ballot 151 to 37 Wednesday to authorize its executive committee to call a strike against the Memphis Publishing Co.

The firm publishes the Commercial Appeal and Press-Scimitar.

The strike would be called "if and when it deems such action necessary."

The vote did not mean a strike would be called, Dick Lane, Guild president, said, but was taken to authorize action in case current contract negotiations with the publishing company bog down.

The Guild, which has been negotiating for a new contract since last Oct. 10, has never struck the two newspapers.

The current contract expired Dec. 10.

Popularity of U.S. in Europe High

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—The popularity of U.S. foreign policy has hit a record high among West Europeans but the Soviets have scored striking gains too, according to a new U.S. Information Agency poll.

The recent rise in pro-Soviet sentiment was attributed to "the avoidance of war over Cuba— which many in Europe attribute more to Soviet moderation than to U.S. strength."

The USIA survey of opinion in four major European nations, dated last month and still classified as confidential, reported that America still runs well ahead of the Soviet Union in popular opinion.

It also said:
1. Confidence in U.S. leadership showed record gains in Britain and West Germany, but dropped some in France where President Charles de Gaulle is "so dramatically at odds" with President Kennedy.

2. Frenchmen nonetheless continue to hold the United States in high esteem, although De Gaulle's drive for "independence" from America is making some headway and predominant French opinion favors non-alignment with either Washington or Moscow.

Findings of USIA polls were the basis of contentions by Kennedy in his 1960 presidential campaign that U.S. prestige abroad had slumped during the Eisenhower years.

Last month USIA agreed to make public its surveys after they are at least one to two years old. Its stated reason for the delay was to avoid damage to U.S. foreign relations by publicizing current studies. Under present USIA policy, last month's poll would not be released before 1965.

The new survey said USIA researchers would shortly prepare a special memorandum from the European opinion sampling dealing specifically with the Cuban situation.

The report's first conclusion from preliminary returns on the European poll was that "favorable impressions of U.S. foreign policies now stand at the highest point registered in measurements on this index extending back to 1956."

"Confidence in the ability of the U.S. to provide wise leadership for the West in dealing with present world problems," the February 1963 responses ranged from a plus 68 per cent net favorable in Germany to 10 per cent in Britain and a minus 10 per cent in France. The figures all represented gains over May 1960 except in France, where the decline was described as "limited."

As for West European opinion of the Soviets, the survey said: "The marked gains in pro-U.S. sentiment in the latest surveys in Western Europe appear to be paralleled by no less striking gains

Pope Appeals for Men to Share
VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII appealed today to all men of good will to work for better use and better sharing of the world's resources.
He spoke at a private audience for 30 world leaders in science and sociology who are in Rome to draft an appeal for a united front against hunger.

Youths Are Involved in Auto Thefts
NEW YORK — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover recently revealed that auto theft — the crime of resistance of the teenage set — has gone up nine per cent in the last year.

He noted also that 60 per cent of these thefts are committed by boys under 18.

Girls were not involved in the crime picture. At least, they don't steal cars. In fact, girls don't cheat, lie, buy answers to tests, run away from home, soap windows — girls don't do ANYTHING morally wrong or purely mischievous nearly as often as boys. Why is this?

Are girls more moral, by nature? Are they repressed? Are they smarter? More scared of society's reactions? Or what?

Some fascinating opinions on this subject were given some years ago by the late Psychiatrist Dr. John Levy, who noted that "girls are just as human as boys." However, they don't show it until their late teens.

"Of every 11 thumb tacks placed under a teacher's seat by park avenue (or well-to-do) ten-year-old children, only one was put there by a girl," the doctor noted. In public schools, where children come from less economically comfortable families, the ratio narrows, but even then "only one out of every four tacks was placed there by feminine hands."

The reason for this relatively exemplary behavior in the youthful years has nothing to do with natural urges to be good. They are purely artificial, society-made urges. "Girls are brought up to believe nice girls 'don't do that.' Boys, on the other hand, 'will be boys' in almost any environment. They are permitted much more freedom to kick up and get into trouble."

So girls, in the early years, are cheated of the right to be humanly aggressive. Society promises them, in return for good behavior, a successful marriage, a beautiful home, and lovely children.

The trouble for girls comes later, when these wondrous promises of childhood are not completely fulfilled. "From her first sniffs at womanhood the young lady senses that it is not all Miss English's finishing school fir girls cracked it up to be. She considers herself cheated. The pallid enjoyments of virtuous womanhood have begun to wear thin, and the full-bodied adventures of the young men are much more attractive."

Now is the time to look for trouble. The American girl in her late teens is inclined to "catch up" on the boys. She has been bamboozled into behaving perfectly. For what?

The result:
By the time those little girls who in pro-Soviet sentiment.

"The Soviet gains are most apparent in the current extent of approval of recent Soviet policies. There is also very substantial improvement in the Soviet peace image, and some increase, except in West Germany, in the general level of esteem for the Soviet Union."

The study found the "net favorable" impressions of Soviet international conduct from June 1962 to February 1963 switched from minus 53 per cent to plus 3 per cent in Britain, from minus 66 to minus 13 in Germany and from minus 35 to plus 21 in France.

The percentages of those saying their country's basic interests agree with America's dropped some in France and Britain between February 1960 and February 1963 but climbed in Germany and Italy, the poll indicated.

The "net favorable" rate slipped from 68 per cent to 51 per cent in Britain and from 9 to 4 per cent in France, while in Germany it rose from 64 to 77 per cent. The Italian response went from 27 per cent in February to 42 per cent in June 1962, the latest count listed for Italy.

THE BAND PLAYS ON
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: So we of the Campbell Buccaneer High School Band should learn to march with the precision of the Rockettes before we can expect applause! Who are the Rockettes anyway? From what I hear they are chorus girls in New York City.

If the people you are talking about are the Rockettes I'm talking about, what have they to do with marching? You seem to think that we aren't a very good band. In a lot of places our band, drill team, majorettes, flag girls and drum major have taken most of the first place trophies. In our area we are considered the finest concert and marching band. Please answer this letter. —G. M., McIntosh, Member of the C.C.B. Band, Campbell, Calif.

Dear Miss McIntosh: The Rockettes are dancers, not chorus girls. Their union of step, rhythm and grace as they whirl, twirl and march across that tremendous Radio City Music Hall stage never fails to arouse every audience to applause.

The original group, there are 46 in all, got its start in St. Louis 30 years ago under Russell Markel. They were brought to New York by "Roxy," guiding genius of the Roxy Theater, who christened them "Rockettes." There they and their successors remained until the Radio City Music Hall acquired them as featured performers and renamed them Rockettes. Mr. Markel still directs them.

They come from all over the world; Canada, England, France, South America, the Philippines and Asia. A girl must be able to do ballet, tap dancing and modern jazz; be five feet five to five feet eight in height; with weight proportional and average looks. The age range is 17 to 25. But during the summer high school girls as young as 16 often fill in for regulars on vacation. The salary is $100 a week. Some of the girls go on to featured parts in Broadway shows or become highly paid fashion models but the majority marry.

If you can dance as well as march, you might become a Rockette! It's a glamorous life. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Ambition."

Dear Helen: I am an honorary member of a high school band. The answers you gave to the member of the Campbell High School Band make me wonder if you have ever been the mother of a girl, or a real teen yourself. Miss McIntosh is annoyed by the apathy of spectators when she and her band march by. I'm neither mother, majorette nor teen — just an old fogey who said "The Holy City" at church to celebrate his 77th birthday.

I concur wholeheartedly with the little majorette, knowing how hard those kids try to do their best. Cheer leaders should be stationed at intervals along the line of march.

Why do people perform if not for praise and money? The more praise, the more money. I attended a parade and felt, though on the sidelines, exactly as Miss McIntosh did. The apathy of the crowd irked me. I tried in my modest way to inject a little cheer by wearing the longest and loudest red necktie I could find. When the band passed I waved the necktie. The players all grinned. —Samuel McMillen, Alliquippa, Pa.

Dear Mr. McMillen: Spontaneous cheering is fine but I doubt if any band would go for an organized claque which, in a sense, the cheer leaders would be. The Rockettes get the applause because the precision of their dancing and marching is perfect. Some high school bands are almost, if not quite, as good.

Memos:
Confused in Love: Chances are you love neither boy. Play safe, don't commit yourself until you finish college.

Scared: Exercise your will by saying no to inconsequential propositions. The more you do, the easier it will be to stand firm on the bigger issues. Avoid being alone with your boy friend in a parked car. Double date: there is safety in numbers. Facts of Life in Areas of Arkansas

By J. C. TILLMAN

Associated Press Staff Writer

A sleepy judge has caused the government loss of a case and afforded Mrs. Dorothy Dorsa of Russellville a little mirth.

Her brother, Capt. Jay Gray of Galena, Kan., was defense attorney in a London, England, trial which ended in a mistrial after Gray caught one of the judges napping—literally.

Mrs. Dorsa was reading a paper while drinking coffee the other morning.

"I was halfway through the story before I realized they were talking about my brother," she exclaimed.

The story told of the trial of a sergeant charged with larceny and misuse of government property. It said in part:

"A mistrial was declared Tuesday at the court - martial of an American airman because one of the officers sitting as a judge fell asleep."

Capt. Jay Gray appealed for a mistrial soon after the court-martial opened, when one of the judges, Maj. Warren L. Simpson, asked to have some testimony repeated because he had been 'dozing'."

The Independence, Sharp, Izard and Fulton county area will be a prettier place one day thanks to "Project Dogwood," sponsored by the Independence County Development Council and the Batesville Chamber of Commerce.

Independence County ordered 14,600 dogwood trees, Sharp 12,000 and Izard and Fulton a total of 5,400.

They were planted this past week.

Jonesboro has the distinction of being the spot chosen for a visit by a small covey of rare birds, identified as Smith Longspurs.

What's more, the birds were particular about just what part of the city they wanted to visit—the airport.

Ben Coffey of Memphis, leading southern ornithologist, heard of the birds' visit and went to Jonesboro. He knew exactly where to find the visitors. Seems that they prefer airports, because the grass is cut rather short and there are wide-open spaces.

The tale is told that a Jonesboro lady who is highly interested in sports got involved in a card party and was unable to keep tabs on proceedings at Barton Coliseum in Little Rock, where the state basketball tourney was underway.

As soon as she could properly break loose, she rushed to a phone, called a radio station and asked the score of the Jonesboro-Harrison game.

Informed the game wasn't over yet, she hurriedly inquired: "Then, what inning is it?"

Legal Age for Juveniles 18

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas House cut out the legal age for juveniles from 21 to 18 years today and set up procedures under which county courts could send juveniles to the State Hospital for mental examination.

The House refused, however, to give county courts exclusive jurisdiction over juveniles and relieve circuit and municipal courts of this authority.

Pulaski County Rep. H. H. Cottrell Jr. presented a package of three bills to alter juvenile delinquency laws. He said the legislation was sponsored by the County Judges Association.

The bills were House measures and were sent to the Senate.

Also passed and sent to the Senate were bills to require real estate salesmen licensed after March 1, 1964, to take a college course in real estate and to permit out of state trucks to fulfill their gasoline buying requirement at stations other than those between the state line and the first weight station.

Rails, Union Seem to Be Far Apart

By EARL AYKROID

CHICAGO (AP)—Railroad management and union representatives appeared to be far apart on ground rules for negotiations today as they meet in a new attempt to reach agreement in their long and crucial dispute over work rules.

Each side said it is hopeful of agreement on the issues but neither would go so far as to predict a successful outcome of the talks.

The principal issue confronting the negotiators is the jobs of some 65,000 trainmen and yard workers—including 40,000 firemen—which the railroads seek to eliminate as unnecessary.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive, Firemen and Engineers, one of five unions involved in the work rules dispute, said success of the negotiations will depend on whether the carriers engage in "real collective bargaining."

"The prospect that fruitful negotiations will begin and continue lies squarely with management," he said. "We are hopeful that management has discarded its inflexible attitude and is now ready to start hardnose bargaining."

James E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the railroads, said he, too, is hopeful an agreement can be reached.

"But," he added, "I would hesitate to make any prediction about the outcome until we have a more definite idea of the attitude of the brotherhoods. If they are prepared to dispose of the firemen issue, as one of their leaders indicated they would, that issue might be disposed of expeditiously."

The railroads propose to overhaul long standing work rules which they say provide unnecessary work, a practice known as featherbedding. This, the railroads claim, costs the industry $600 million a year.

Wynn Trying to Stick to Get Game 300

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Early Wynn, 43, one victory shy of becoming the 14th major league pitcher to win 300 games, is trying to stick with the Chicago White Sox in a final bid to join the select circle. Philadelphia Phillies gave him a shove toward the old folks' home Wednesday.

Working without a contract and needing some impressive performances to get White Sox brass to draw one up, Wynn was shelved for two triples, a double, a single and Wes Covington's homer in the first inning of the exhibition game against the Phillies at Sarasota, Fla.

That was it for Wynn. The White Sox managed to turn the tables in the third inning and belted Phil's ace Art Mahaffey and reliever Billy Smith for eight runs and a 10-7 victory.

It was a tough day for pitchers. Cleveland 20-game winner Dick Donovan was shelved for seven straight hits and four runs in a 6-5 loss to Houston at Tucson, Ariz., and New York Yankee hopeful Stan Williams was tagged hard as the world champions lost to Detroit 4-2 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for their fourth defeat in five games.

In other Florida games, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged Milwaukee 3-1 at Wet Palm Beach, the New York Mets defeated Cincinnati 3-2 at St. Petersburg, Kansas City nipped Washington 5-4 at Bradenton and Pittsburgh whipped St. Louis 5-3 at Fort Myers. In other Arizona contests, San Francisco squeezed by the Chicago Cubs 3-2 at Mesa and Boston belted the Los Angeles Angels 5-1 at Scottsdale.

Clay Gains Decision in Ten Rounds

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Even in victory the Cassius Clay balloon has been punctured. The self-proclaimed "greatest heavyweight" is just human after all.

There were no knockouts, no knockdowns, no "total annihilation," and brash Cassius was lucky to get a thin, lustily booed decision in 10 rounds over hard-working Doug Jones of New York at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

At times Clay looked like a novice both at long range and inside. His bombs didn't explode. And he had to rally furiously in the final two rounds to capture the unanimous verdict.

As for Liston, Clay is no more ready for him this year than Floyd Patterson was in the second minute of his title debacle last Sept. 25. Yet the undaunted Clay said he wanted that "big, ugly bear Liston within six months."

"Clay showed me that I'll get locked up for murder if we're ever matched," was the comment of Liston who saw the closed circuit telecast in Miami Beach.

But at 21, 6-foot-3, 202½ pounds and undefeated, the unmuffled Louisville Lip still has a bright future ahead of him even if he has sworn off poetic predictions.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner of the Garden wants to put Clay and Jones in Yankee Stadium this June and there was talk also of a lucrative international fight with Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, the former heavyweight champion.

There were cries of "fake" and "fix" by some of the pro-Jones fans in the capacity crowd of 18,732 seconds after the unanimous decision was announced. Varied objects were tossed into the ring by lite fans.

Judges Artie Aidala and Frank Forbes had the same 5-4-1 scores while referee Joe LoScalzo, on his first important assignment, made it 8-4-1 in rounds for Clay.

The Associated Press card had Jones ahead, 5-4-1. A sample check of boxing writers on the four sides of the ring showed a 7-5 edge for Clay with three calling it even.

"From now on no more predictions of what round I'm going to finish my opponent," said Cassius. "People are so hypocritical." He had predicted "Jones will fall in four."

The fight produced the first boxing sellout—$104,943 gross gate—in the Garden in six years, and purses of about $90,000 for Clay and $75,000 for Jones including the closed circuit television.

Silversmith Keeps Class Spellbound

By RUTH MALONE

How to draw wire can be a most fascinating experience. Members of Maria Regnier's new silversmith class were completely spellbound when they saw the wire getting longer and longer. They were amazed and pleased at something so unimagable when their Hungarian teacher demonstrated with a piece of wire as thick as an ordinary coat hanger. Maria drew it completely through the drawplate then through successively smaller holes and the wire became thinner and longer each time.

This is just one of the many enchanting experience of this new class in Camden, where one of the very few American craftsmen of handmade silver lives today.

"To be a silversmith is the most satisfying thing in the world," says Maria Regnier, and her pupils all agree. Maria's hobby developed into a business that has brought famous people to her door as the lovely silver pieces wearing the M. R. Hallmark are rapidly becoming collector's items.

Although her name is French this charming lady was born in Hungary and only moved to Arkansas a little over a year ago when she married Warren A. Krimmel, a retired agronomist.

When local friends prevailed on Maria to teach a class she moved her shop to a large spacious room on the first floor level of Fairacres, the Krimmels' beautiful home which is a showplace in South Arkansas. It is well known as a bird sanctuary and is within the city limits.

They would be silversmiths, all local women, enjoy the work and are now making things they've always wanted, but were unable to buy.

As Maria explained, "Man has always wanted to possess beautiful things and man wants to do things. In a class of this type the two are combined and the result is satisfying."

The class members choose their own pieces and are making designs they created. Mae Reynolds has an antique wooden break basket that she enjoys using for flat silver or flower arrangements when she has a buffet dinner. Now she is duplicating this in silver with some variations she has made. As I watched Mae sew and file I realized the silver basket would become even more valuable than just for the original purpose. It is something she is creating of silver that will be cherished and admired through the years to come.

Simplicity in design is the one thing from which Maria Regnier refuses to deviate. She feels silver is so beautiful it needs no adornment. Her lovely large pieces prove this and the monogram pins she designs are charming beyond description. Often she works with gold and makes beautiful necklaces, rings and bracelets. This unusual woman is recognized as one of the country's outstanding artists in silver. She turns out assorted pieces of jewelry, bowls, tea and coffee services, flat ware, candelabra and complete sets of table silver. Endless hours are often spent on the large pieces.

"It's interesting," she says, "To go to a party and find all of the men have on some jewelry you class will experience his thrill for Roxann Daniel is making cuff links for next year's Christmas gifts. She hardly stopped her filing long enough for a cup of coffee the morning I was there and she is so interested she takes her work home and files away while her two babies take their afternoon naps.

Maria insists each class member keep a notebook which she goes through every lesson. "They write notes to remember terms and steps familiar," she said. "Then I assign them work when they leave. When they come back if they have completed it they are that much ahead, but they do not have to work at home."

These notebooks are a source of amusement to Maria. "Did you think you were in a cooking class?" she asked Roxann when she saw the word sauter instead of solder. One notebook bears the heading, The Teacher's Gems and has Number 1. Teacher says among other things respect your tools more than you do your mother or father.

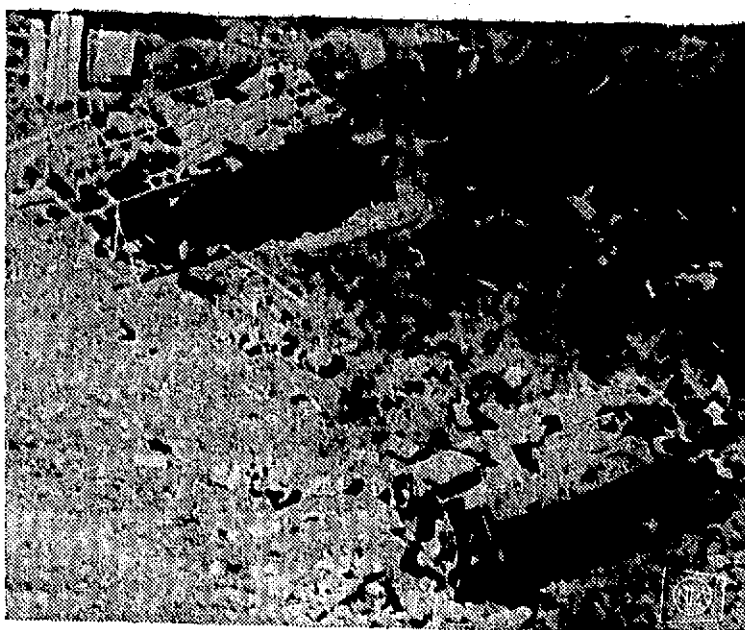

The class is quite fortunate that they have access to Marianas wonderful tools and have only to buy the perishable ones like saw blades and fine files.

The bright airy room with its twelve foot worktable gives "elbow room" and more for good size classes. Maria plans to add a few more classes if there is an interest in neighboring towns but not over ten will be allowed in any one class. She charges a very nominal fee for the three hour class period and the group divides to whether 4-6-8 or 10 are present. As she explained, "If there are few in a class naturally I have more time to give individual help." She encourages members of the present class to work on more than one thing at a time so they will be able to accomplish more without waiting while she assists another member. The present class is held on Monday morning from nine until twelve.

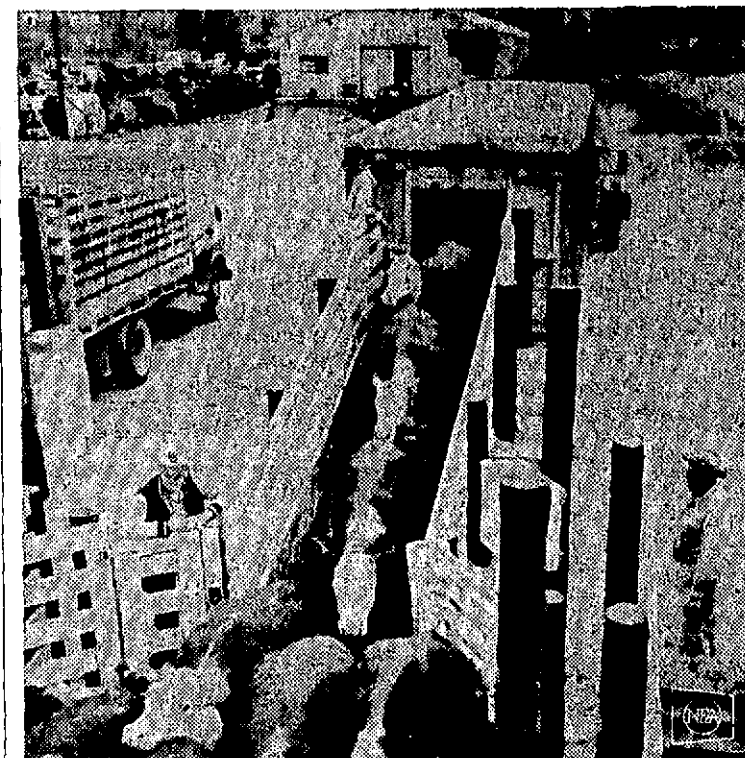

There is a large revolvable gorge for large pieces of silver so you can turn the forge and heat each piece evenly because as Maria explained, "Silver no matter how large as to be evenly hot before solder will flow." There is a stationary forge for smaller pieces.

The shop has one corner "off limits", Maria's own workbench. "Respect for tools" is Maria's advice each class day. She added, "It is very important that tools be kept absolutely clean as they cannot be used then on anything else but silver — if iron, aluminum or tin or lead gets on silver and silver is heated it will get in the silver and pit it."

She can secure all materials needed for classwork. Pat Ward is making serving pieces for wedding gifts. If the ones she creates are anything like the lovely ones

SEEK CRASH CLUES—Like working a giant jigsaw puzzle, federal aviation investigators reassemble small pieces of a Northwest Airlines jetliner at the crash site deep in the Florida Everglades. Center fuselage section is lower right.

ROUNDUP TIME ON WHEELS—Feedlot-fattened cattle come to market by truck in modern cattle operation.

I've seen in Maria's own case I know each bride that receives one will be glad Pat attended Maria Regnier's silversmith class. The unusual silver piece Mary Daniel was making the day I was there really fascinated me. Mary said she has never had anything to serve crackers when she has a buffet dinner and this attractive piece will hold them standing up on edge.

All of the class members show remarkable talent if their silver work is the judge, yet I know until a few lessons ago not one in the group had ever tried silvercraft.

Maria Regnier's own exhibitions of handwrought silver have been held at leading art galleries and museums in regional and national area. Her next exhibit will include 200 pieces and will be held March 17 in Shreveport, Louisiana, at the museum there.

I thought as I left this fascinating class just how many one man shows might be held in the future because of the classes now being planned by this talented silversmith.

Navy Chief Ordered the TFX Plane

EDITORS NOTE—A Senate investigation into the awarding of a potential $6.5-billion contract for the TFX Navy-Air Force fighter plane has been making headlines for days. In this exclusive interview, Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth tells why he made his recommendations on the contract.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth said today he recommended the General Dynamics Corp. version of the TFX fighter plane without any dictation from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara or any political or industrial influence.

Korth told The Associated Press he decided against the rival Boeing Co. proposal for an advanced all-purpose Navy-Air Force fighter because that proposal fell short on two basic points, one of them realistic cost estimates.

"It was not dictated," Korth said in an interview. "It was a decision that Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert and I made jointly and independently and then made our recommendation to McNamara."

The Navy chief said McNamara had indicated no leanings to him before he took the matter under consideration.

"None whatsoever," the Texan replied when asked whether—as had been suggested in a Senate investigation — political considerations tilted the award of the potential $6.5-billion project to General Dynamics.

Korth was the first of the top Pentagon leaders to discuss publicly the background of the contract which now is under investigation by the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

The subcommittee has developed testimony that military evaluation boards were overruled four times before the award was given last summer to General Dynamics, of Fort Worth, Tex., with Grumman Aircraft Corp. as an associate.

Testimony also has indicated that the proposal by Boeing, a Seattle, Wash., firm, cost from $100 million to $415 million less than the General Dynamics version.

Korth said the Navy rejected the first three proposals by both General Dynamics and Boeing because they called for too heavy and too big a plane, unsuited for carrier operations.

On the fourth go-around, Korth said, the Navy-Air Force evaluation board of experts recommended the Boeing model, although it held that both firms' revamped blueprints met the first requirement—that the new plane would result in a substantial increase in fighter capability.

Korth said he favored the General Dynamics version—and so recommended to McNamara—because he felt that model was better in two other related basic points, realistic cost and what is called "commonality."

General Dynamics and Boeing offered virtually identical planes, he said, but Dynamics combined its offering in a single model while Boeing proposed two similar planes, one for the Air Force and one for the Navy.

Tabasco Seasons A Good Egg

March is Egg Month—a good time to enjoy nature's neat, nutritious package of complete protein, essential vitamins and minerals. Whether you boil, bake or poach it, seasoning is important to an egg, and Tabasco, the zesty liquid red pepper, is ideal. A satisfying, healthful breakfast consisting of a glass of tomato juice, one egg, two strips of bacon and two pieces of lightly buttered toast adds up to only about 400 calories.

TABASCO EGGS

Tabasco Soft-Cooked Eggs: If eggs are started in cold water, bring water to boiling point; turn off heat; hold in hot water 2 to 4 minutes—after heat is turned off. If eggs are started in boiling water, turn off heat; hold in hot water 6 to 8 minutes—after heat is turned off. If 4 or more eggs are to be cooked at one time, do not turn off heat entirely, but reduce it until water is at a simmering temperature. Hold eggs at simmering temperature 4 to 6 minutes. Exact time will vary according to individual tastes, the size of eggs and their temperature at the time cooking was begun. Season with 2 drops of Tabasco.

Tabasco Baked Eggs: Lightly butter individual baking dishes. Add 2 tablespoons light cream or milk with 1/16 teaspoon Tabasco to each dish. Carefully break in eggs. Sprinkle lightly with salt and paprika. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) 12 to 18 minutes or until eggs are set.

Tabasco Poached Eggs: Fill poaching pan half full with water; boil. Lower to simmering temperature. Grease poaching unit with a little butter or margarine combined with 2 drops Tabasco; heat until butter is melted. Carefully break eggs into unit and cook over simmering water 4 to 6 minutes until whites are solid and yolks are of desired firmness.

Reds Leaving Cuba But Move Slow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. sources said today Soviet troops are leaving Cuba at a relatively slow pace with only two days to go for Premier Khrushchev to honor his pledge to President Kennedy that "several thousand" would depart by mid-March.

In Moscow, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said the fourth ship carrying specialists who had been training Cubans in "powerful, up-to-date Soviet military techniques" sailed for home Sunday. It did not say how many were in Sunday's contingent or how many have left altogether.

This is the first time any such departure store has appeared in the Soviet press, indicating the beginning of a propaganda build-up.

The New York Times news service, in a Washington dispatch, said 560 Soviet servicemen sailed from Havana last Saturday on the Soviet liner Gruzia (Georgia), an 11,000-ton Black Sea cruise ship. The Times said that the Admiral Nakhimov, the 15,000-ton Berlin taken from Germany after World War II, is due in Havana today to pick up more troops. It might take as many as 4,500.

Pravda's dispatch from Havana said that the jobs of the specialists who sailed Sunday were finished, and that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government had agreed that the Soviet experts could go home.

U.S. experts in Washington estimated there were 17,500 Soviet military personnel in Cuba when the withdrawals began. This was 5,000 fewer than believed stationed there at the height of the Cuban crisis last October.

The Soviet liner Baltika, which brought Khrushchev to New York in 1960, sailed Feb. 21 with an unspecified number of soldiers and airmen aboard.

Havana dispatches said 2,000 sailed on a ship which reporters were forbidden to identify March 1. Washington was skeptical of the figure, but U.S. officials said it is difficult to count men aboard by aerial reconnaissance. This ship probably was the Kalinin, another cruise vessel.

President Kennedy told his news conference March 6 he was not satisfied with the withdrawal rate, but this apparently has been stepped up.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Tuesday the United States will continue to press for more troop withdrawals. He said a "complete report" will not be issued until after the middle of the month.

Rusk also told the National Advertising Council there are still "some highly dangerous elements in the Cuba situation today."

He listed them as:
1. The possibility the Soviets would send offensive weapons back to Cuba. This, he said, would bring on a new crisis far greater than last October's.

2. Any interference with the daily U.S. surveillance of Cuba.
3. Any Soviet military action

Completely New Viruses Are Found

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discovery of two new strains of influenza virus—with all indications that one of them was largely responsible for this winter's widespread flu epidemics—was disclosed today.

The new strains were identified too late for this season's vaccine to include extra guards against them, it was learned.

One is a new and potent form of the Asian flu virus which first appeared in 1957. This new strain is the one held mainly responsible for this year's outbreak of flu—with the available vaccine having only limited power against it, Public Health Service doctors told against Cubans.

4. Any forays from Cuba against neighboring countries.

a reporter. Studies have indicated that in animals, the present vaccine affords no protection at all against the new virus, they said. Preliminary evidence from human studies is that this winter the vaccine showed "appreciably less" than its usual 75 per cent efficiency—presumably because of the new virus.

Influenza cases have been unusually severe this winter, often lasting up to two weeks instead of the usual three or four days. School absenteeism has ranged up to 73 per cent of pupils in some schools. Death rates from pneumonia, complicated by flu, have been unusually high among the elderly in some communities.

The other newcomer to the elusive brigade of viruses is a new strain of type B influenza virus. Type B and type A are the two major types of flu virus. Each has several sub-strains.

So far, the new B-type strain appears to have been confined to a single schoolhouse in Formosa where it was first detected last November. Scientists of the National Institutes of Health say it has the potential for spreading through the world next winter.

An example of this swift spreading is the new strain of Asian flu virus which NIH researchers said first appeared in Tokyo in January 1962.

It wasn't until last June, when samples of the virus were obtained from abroad by NIH's Division of Biologic Standards, that first strong evidence was obtained that this was a new strain of Asian flu. It wasn't confirmed until November.

It was too late to include the new virus in the vaccine to be used in preparation for the winter of 1962-1963.

Millions of doses of vaccine had already been manufactured and distributed. It would have taken up to six months to tool up for inclusion of the new strain.

Also, scientists still couldn't be sure the new strain would hit the United States, although there was evidence it had cropped up in Formosa and New Zealand as well as Japan.

Meanwhile, an experimental vaccine employing the new virus was developed at NIH. In tests on human volunteers, including more than 100 federal prisoners,

Dream Has Come True for Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A dream has come true for the young state of Alaska.

For the first time the state's Southeast Panhandle has a highway—a marine highway.

The sleek new motor vessel Malaspina, first of three ships to be delivered for use on the Southeast Marine Highway, initiated the new service last month.

natural adaptation of the virus to some threat to its existence, such as vaccine.

Nature's own radiations—including cosmic rays—may be another factor, scientists say. Radiation from nuclear tests is still another possibility, "although, at present, there is no way to prove this—or disprove it."

Eventually to be joined by the motor vessels Taku and Matanuska, the Malaspina started her first run from Prince Rupert, B.C. The 450-mile route from Prince Rupert, the southern terminus of the new system, to historic Skagway, the northern terminus, includes stops at Ketchikan, Wrangell, Petersburg, Sitka, Juneau and Haines.

The remaining two ships are under construction at the Puget Sound Bridge and Drydock Co. yard in Seattle. They are expected to be in service in May.

When all three vessels are operating, there will be six departures a week from Prince Rupert, which can be reached by steamship, rail, air, bus and highway.

The voyage from Prince Rupert takes passengers through spectacular scenery—many islands, towering spruce, hemlock and cedar forests and cliff-hanging glaciers.

This topography made a marine highway necessary. Engineers estimate a regular highway would cost some $350-400 million, if it could be constructed.

Coffee For A Morning Respite Should Be Rich, Hot and Fresh

The best cup of coffee is the one a woman sips after she has seen her children safely off to school and her husband to his work. The sun streams through the kitchen window, the mail is waiting to be read or perhaps there are just day dreams to be dreamt.

Whether she sips alone or in the company of a friend, that cup of coffee is probably the most welcome one. However, it must be good—well-brewed, just as it would be for a company dinner. This, of course, means adhering to certain coffee-brewing rules, none of which is difficult, but all of which are important.

A Shining Coffee Pot

Get a fresh start by using a spotless coffee-maker. If you wash your coffee-pot in soapy water and rinse it thoroughly each time you use it, you'll be sure to get rid of the oily film left after brewing. Then, when brewing time comes 'round again, use fresh, cold water to start. Your ground coffee should be fresh, too, and it will be if you use up vacuum-packed coffee within a week after opening the tin. Coffee in the bean, unground, will stay fresh for about ten to fourteen days.

Measure and Time Carefully

The amount of water and coffee you use are of vital importance to a delicious pot of coffee. For each serving, use:

1 Approved Coffee Measure (or 2 level measuring tablespoons) of coffee

2 of a measuring cup (8 ounces) of water

Each type of coffee-maker requires a different brewing time: Percolator—percolate over low heat from 6 to 8 minutes, no longer. Vacuum—hold brewing coffee in upper bowl no longer than 3 minutes. Drip—pour in boiling water; it should go through coffee in 4 to 6 minutes. Stir before serving.

A few additional tips on brewing good coffee are pertinent: (1) Use at least three-quarters of the capacity of your coffee-maker. For fewer cups, use a smaller maker. (2) Brewing too long makes coffee bitter. (3) Always use the proper grind of coffee for your coffee-maker. (4) Never allow coffee to boil after brewing. (5) Freshly brewed coffee tastes best, so serve it as soon as possible after brewing.

Churchill Figured to Die Young

EDITORS: This is the first in a series on Winston Churchill. By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Winston Churchill barely made it.

For years he was tormented by the thought he had to make a name for himself early because he expected to die young, like his father.

He didn't die young and by the time he was 65 he was a political failure. If he had died then, in 1939, he would have been at best only a footnote in history.

He was despised, distrusted and even hated by many in British politics, including many members of his own Conservative party. He had practically no following.

He was recognized as a tremendous and delightful orator. But all through the 1930s, while he urged Britain to arm against Hitler, there were doubts about his judgment.

His judgment had not always been good. He was impulsive, sometimes erratic, and he always had an urge to run the show.

The war came, just as he had warned. He was brought into the Cabinet in 1939. On May 10, 1940, the day Hitler attacked the West, he was made prime minister.

In the next five years—the time it took to win the war—his leadership, and the inspiration he gave both his own people and Britain's allies, made him one of the greatest figures in history.

He is 88 now, and fragile. Congress, anxious to pay him tribute in his lifetime, is about to make him an honorary American citizen, something it has done for no other man. The House approved this Tuesday, the Senate will soon.

There were many reasons for Churchill's failure until he was 65. He switched from right to left and back to right; he fought with his own party; and he got mixed up in mistakes and disaster.

He belonged more in the 19th than the 20th century when he first entered Parliament in 1901, the year Queen Victoria died after a reign of 64 years. He was a true Victorian.

He was a reactionary, an isolationist, a pacifist, an imperialist (he remained an imperialist into his old age), a boob in economics, without a clear philosophy except for getting ahead.

He lacked understanding of both workers and the poor. He fought against enlarging the army, although the Kaiser's Germany was arming. His vision was so poor he couldn't picture any more large land battles.

He fought with his Conservative party's leadership and got no advancement or recognition. In three years he switched over to the Liberals. His critics said he was an opportunist.

But he became in a hurry a flaming Liberal and in the next few years helped put through a raft of social legislation unprecedented in British history.

He urged a "soak-the-rich" tax, particularly against the rich landowning dukes, although he had nine dukes in his own family background. Like President Franklin D. Roosevelt later, he was called a "traitor to his class."

Yet, for all practical purposes, by 1911 his Liberal days were over. That year Germany became an obvious menace and Prime Minister David Lloyd George

Wants Power to Deal With Shutdowns

EDITOR'S NOTE — A time of growing labor-management trouble looms ahead and raises the issue of possible future compulsory arbitration. Last of four special articles.

By STERLING F. GREEN AP Economic Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although the odds are against any early government crackdown on labor strife, another serious outbreak of "national emergency" strikes might induce Congress to act.

Maybe not in 1963, perhaps in 1964.

President Kennedy wants new powers to deal with economy-crippling shutdowns. But he feels this is not the year to open the Pandora's box called the Taft-Hartley Act.

His secretary of labor is not sure the lid will stay on. Patient, tolerant W. Willard Wirtz has told unions and bosses that they are judgment.

brought Churchill into his Cabinet as first lord of the Admiralty. But soon after war began in 1914 Churchill plunged into a disaster that was to be thrown at him until the second World War washed out the memory. He spearheaded the Allied attack on the Dardanelles. It failed and cost the British and French over 300,000 casualties.

Strategically, the idea was sound. But it was badly carried out, not only by Churchill but by others. Later a British royal commission put some, but not all, of the blame on him. He was out of the Cabinet after that.

Later he held other high posts. But his days of social crusading were over. He used troops in some great British strikes and this earned him the hatred of labor. He had switched back to the Conservatives by then but many in his own party distrusted him. So did the Liberals. The Laborites' feelings were worse.

Nevertheless, all through the 1930s, he was the one who saw clearest the danger from Germany just as he saw better than Roosevelt the danger from communism.

Why was he picked as prime minister in 1940 when he had been repudiated so long?

This is a reasonable answer: Until then he had been out of tune with popular thinking which had become pacifist. When the danger of Hitler became unmistakable—by war—popular thinking and Churchill's thinking became one: total resistance to the Nazis.

No sooner was the war over than the voters threw him out and replaced him with a Labor government. Again why? Churchill, absorbed in the war, had given no thought to peacetime needs. The Laborites did. They had a program. Churchill and his Conservatives had nothing to offer except Churchill's photograph.

After six years of the Laborites, the people in 1951 put Churchill back in power. But he was 77 then. In 1955, when he was 81 and growing feeble, his own Cabinet asked him to step down. He did although he still is in Parliament.

He was a tremendous wartime leader but a poor politician. Roosevelt was much better as a politician. All his life Churchill tried to make people see things his way. Roosevelt waited till a popular mood had formed and then gave it direction.

Yet, for all practical purposes, by 1911 his Liberal days were over. That year Germany became an obvious menace and Prime Minister David Lloyd George underestimating the public's growing distaste for industrial "brinkmanship."

"A decision has been made," Wirtz said. "That decision is that if collective bargaining can't produce peaceable settlements of these controversies, the public will."

When Congress convened a good many members reacted in alarm to the paralysis of East and Gulf Coast shipping, the New York newspaper blackout, the current threat to aerospace production, and 1962's railroad, airline and construction shutdowns.

They saw the industrial unions led by Walter Reuther gearing up a militant, multimillion-dollar organizing drive, and heard Teamsters President James R. Hoffa beating the drums for a giant alliance of transportation unions.

Influential Congress members rushed to introduce a half-dozen drastic measures—compulsory arbitration, antitrust sanctions, the break-up of national unions, even partial seizure of essential industries by the government.

Kennedy did not mention labor legislation in any of his messages to Congress. The President hopes, say his aides, to avoid any eruption of labor controversy in Congress that would distract attention from his No. 1 goal, tax reduction.

Congress apparently will be happy to leave the labor bills in cold storage.

One congressional staff aide explained: "Labor bills are just unpopular. Whichever way a congressman votes, he makes a lot of people mad at him."

Moreover, Congress has learned from experience that when the Taft-Hartley Act is opened up for amendment, labor and industry lobbies crowd into the act—until timely, responsible legislation becomes a near impossibility.

The lineup of potential disputes is not as bad in 1963 as it might be next year.

In 1964 wage contracts expire in many of the biggest, hardest-bargaining industries—steel, autos, oil, meatpacking, aircraft, ordinance, maritime, telephones, and most of the Teamsters' biggest trucking agreements.

A prolonged strike in any one could imperil the national defense, economic stability, or public health. Shutdowns in batches would almost surely force Kennedy to call on Congress for restrictive legislation.

Some of the ugliest disputes since World War II have been settled by the simple threat of congressional action.

What might be the shape of the new legislation if Kennedy finally is forced to use this ultimate weapon, or if an impatient Con-

YAM ice cream pie is made from a special recipe that came out of "Yambilee," Louisiana's colorful yearly yam festival.

New Sweet Treat

Sunny Orange Blondies

Rich, chewy and delicious are new "Sunny Orange Blondies," so easy-to-make from nourishing packaged graham cracker crumbs. The brownie-like consistency plus an orange gundrop for flavor treat surprise will make such a hit with coffee klatch friends that you'll want to make a second batch for the cookie-jar raiders. Here's the quick way to make them:

Sunny Orange Blondies
3 cups Sunshine packaged graham cracker crumbs
1 egg, well beaten
1 14-oz. can sweetened condensed milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon almond extract
20 "orange section" gumdrops

In a bowl combine crumbs, egg, milk, lemon juice, salt and almond extract. Turn into greased 7" x 11" x 1 1/2" pan, spreading evenly. Arrange orange gumdrops evenly and press into mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) for about 35 minutes, or until firm to touch. Cut while warm, allowing 1 gundrop per piece. Yield: 20 blondies.

gress takes matters into its own hands?

Kennedy's ideas are well known. The Taft-Hartley law gives him only the power to set up a fact-finding board to consider whether a national emergency exists; then he may seek a court order to enforce an 8-day cooling-off period. At its expiration, the strike can be resumed.

The President has suggested the need for a bigger selection of weapons.

Most frequently mentioned is the one fact-finding boards with power to recommend actual terms of settlement, thus bringing public opinion to bear on the contending parties. The President's labor-management advisory committee backs this idea.

Demos Looking

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Democratic party's convention site selection committee looked over Miami Beach's qualifications as a location for the 1964 presidential nominating convention and then headed for San Francisco.

"This is a very impressive place," William S. Potter of Wilmington, Del., chairman of the site committee, said Monday. "Miami Beach is definitely in the running."

Miami Beach offered $600,000 tops of any city for the convention.

Election Suit Dismissal Affirmed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court affirmed Conway Circuit Court today in dismissing an election suit filed by Robert J. Mobley, chairman of the Conway County Better Government League.

Mobley had asked for a writ of mandamus to force Conway County for, the county clerk and the Morilton Headlight, a weekly newspaper.

Other cities besides San Francisco bidding for the convention are Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Mobley contended the penalties were due because the clerk, collector and the newspaper had failed to include along with the names of poll tax buyers their address, voting precinct and school district as required by law.

The Supreme Court said a writ of mandamus was not the proper action to ask for in the case. It said Mobley should have appealed any order of the county court which failed to follow Arkansas election laws.

Mobley filed the suit in June 1962 during a heated campaign by the Better Government League to unseat incumbents in the Democratic Judge Tom Scott to collect cratic primary. The Supreme Court also affirmed the second degree murder conviction of Billy Seabourn, a Fort Smith tavern owner.

Seabourn was charged in Sebastian Circuit Court with first degree murder in the fatal shooting of Pvt. George Schuh, who was stationed at Ft. Chaffee, June 28, 1962.

Seabourn pleaded innocent by reason of self defense and the Circuit Court jury reduced the charge, convicted him and sentenced him to 21 years in prison.

He appealed on grounds there was not sufficient evidence to sustain a second degree murder conviction.

The Supreme Court upheld a penalties from the county collec-

Lafayette County Industrial development bond issue of $210,000. A group of taxpayers had filed suit in Lafayette Circuit Court charging that the county court which originally upheld the bond issue was improperly in session.

A cross complaint filed later by the taxpayers charged that Amendment 49, under which the bonds were voted, requires a final contract with an industry before bonds can be voted.

The Supreme Court upheld the circuit court in saying that the amendment does not require such a contract.

The high court said there was no sufficient testimony that the county court was not legally in session.

Combine Fish and Soup For "Souper" Meals

It's March... and this year a month of many meatless meal days. Serve your family sparkling, satisfying meals with delicious fish dishes.

Fish fillets... which can be purchased fresh or frozen... are cleaned, boned, and ready for cooking. While you can request any favorite fish filleted, the most popular and most generally available kinds are flounder, sole, cod, and haddock. One very delicious way is stuffed (the filling is placed on the fillet and then it's rolled) and baked in a flavorful sauce.

For our Stuffed Fillets Florentine... with their tasty spinach nut filling... we suggest a rosy canned condensed tomato soup sauce. It keeps the fillets moist and juicy while baking, adds a zesty flavor, and balances scope of color.

Round out your menu with asparagus topped with buttered bread crumbs, spiced fruit, and lemon meringue pudding.

Stuffed Fillets Florentine
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 package (10 ounces) frozen spinach, cooked and well drained
3/4 cup finely chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons minced parsley
4 fillets of flounder (about 1 1/2 pounds)
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 small clove garlic minced
Generous dash farrington
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice

In saucepan, cook onion in 1 tablespoon butter until tender. Remove from heat; mix in spinach, walnuts, and nutmeg; spread evenly over fish fillets. Roll and fasten with toothpicks. In saucepan, cook celery, parsley, garlic, and farrington in remaining butter until celery is tender. Blend in remaining ingredients. Arrange fish in shallow baking dish (10"x6"x2"). Pour sauce over fish. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Grain Broker Is Charged With Fraud

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Dardanelle grain broker has been charged with fraud in connection with the alleged taking of $160,000 from the Bank of Russellville, Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said Tuesday.

Moore said Bronson Woodworth, 53, was charged with falsifying a bill of lading and was held in lieu of $15,000 bond. He was arrested at Arkansas Baptist Hospital Tuesday by U.S. Marshalls Lindsey Deal and Ira Sutterfield.

Jim Young of Russellville, attorney for Woodworth, said Woodworth had been at the hospital for psychiatric care. The FBI said Woodworth was held at the State Hospital's security unit.

Moore said Woodworth induced the bank to accept drafts and bills of lading totaling over $160,000, for which he received immediate credit.

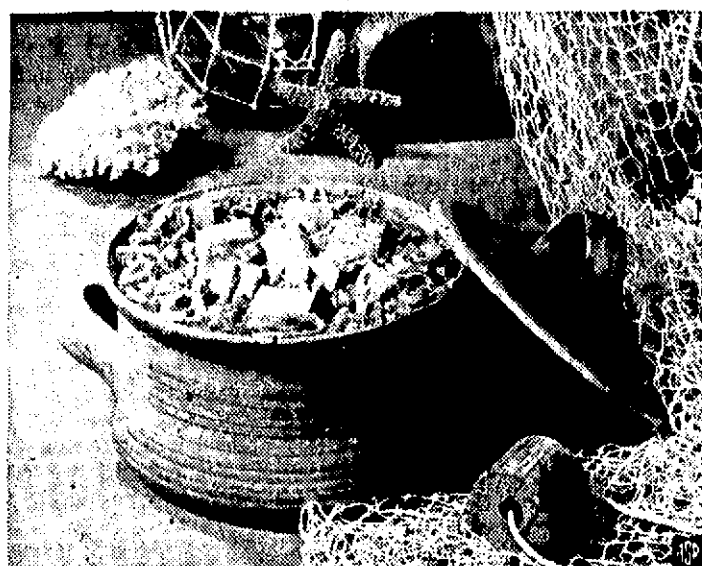

He was arrested on a complaint filed March 9 before Commissioner John E. Coates. Woodworth was arraigned before Coates Tuesday.

The complaint alleges that Woodworth made, uttered and transferred for value a false bill of lading purporting to show a shipment of 50 tons of solvent soybean meal from Planters Manufacturing Co. of Clarksdale, Miss., to Nutrena Mills, Inc. at Giddings, Tex.

Moore said Woodworth operated at Russellville under the name of Bronson Whitworth, Inc. He disappeared from Russellville, where he had lived several years, Moore said, on March 5.

Woodworth went into business for himself about three years ago, Moore said, after serving as manager of General Mills milling operations at Dardanelle and being Extra! Extra!

Good News Casserole provides the homemaker with plenty of "extras." The dish is, for instance, extra economical and extra delicious. It is a savory combination of tuna in vegetable oil, peas, French-fried onions, and cream of mushroom soup. Ac'cent monosodium glutamate brings out all the delicate flavor of the tuna—and combines all the flavors of the ingredients into a harmonious whole.

The dish is perfect for company dinner too; combine the ingredients, pop the casserole into the oven, and chat with guests while this meal-in-a-dish bakes. Good News Casserole is sure to be a headliner for festive buffet suppers—and for family meals as well.

Says Being Negro Like Closed TV

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—"Being a Negro is just like closed circuit television—other channels just don't come through."

"I am a Jew, born in Berlin, now a naturalized American citizen."

"No doors have ever been closed to me. I believe it is my particular responsibility to help make the same opportunities available to all people."

In the auditorium of a suburban Kansas City church, more than 400 persons listened intently as six women related their experiences with discrimination.

They were members of the Panel of Americans, an organization of 23 Kansas City women founded six years ago to promote racial and religious harmony. All are volunteers. They receive no pay, even for out-of-town engagements.

In 1950, the panel made 17 appearances. This year, 70 are scheduled.

How effective are they? Dr. Harry Corbin, president of the University of Wichita, had this to say: "Their gentleness brought the audience to a common meeting ground with them. Then the story, different, but repetitious in meaning, struck home and did so with the unbelievers as well as those already committed."

The panel deliberately emphasizes the soft sell, using mocking humor effectively.

Sister Christine, a nun, first became aware of anti-Catholic feeling during Democrat Al Smith's

Pinball Machines

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he would back a legislative act next session giving cities authority to outlaw pinball machines if the state Supreme Court rules against Piggott in a case now before it.

The court has on appeal a case in which a chancery court said the city could not outlaw pinball machines because state law provided for licensing of them.

If the court upholds the city in outlawing the machines, Faubus said in a news conference, no legislation will be needed. If it should rule against Piggott, he said, "Then I would be in favor of some legislation giving the cities the needed authority."

Such a bill has been introduced in the House but has not been acted upon and is unlikely to get through this session.

Legislation against gambling apparently is dead this session. The Senate tabled Tuesday a House bill urging law enforcement officials to crack down on gambling.

unsuccessful presidential campaign in 1928.

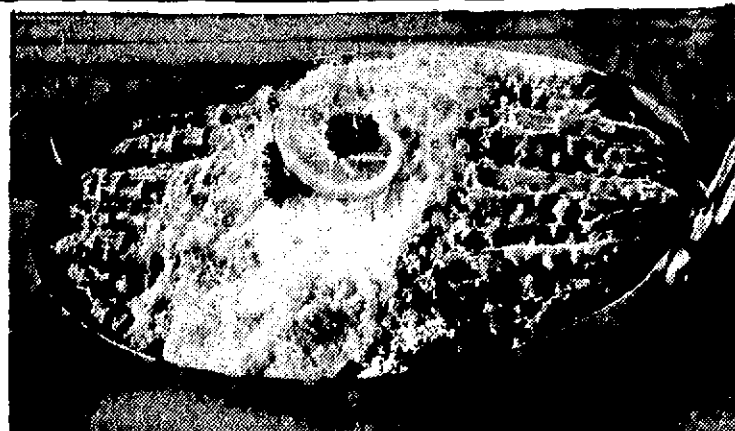

Reared by a Catholic mother and an agnostic father, she recalls suggesting that they could move to a more friendly country, except "What will we do with daddy?"

"Occasionally we sense hostility in the air," says Mrs. Paul Brown, moderator and organizer of the panel. "Once a man rose belligerently and said we had a lot of nerve trying to tell them to integrate."

The panel began at a meeting of the sisterhood of Temple B'nai Jehudah here.

Mrs. Ernest Dick, social leader, church worker, wife of a successful businessman, explains why she is a panel member:

"All do not share my comfortable position and I am convinced that it should be shared. We must give more than lip service to the precept that all men are brothers."

Vietnamese Train Girls in Warfare

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)

Earth's largest living things, the giant sequoias, sprout from tiny seeds resembling rolled oats, of which it takes 3,000 to make an ounce.

Phu is a slim, 19-year-old college girl with warm, wide eyes and a bashful smile. She wears her long, black hair in a pony tail and dresses in shimmering, white silk.

She also is a good shot with a U.S. Army carbine and is trained to kill silently with daggers and other weapons.

Phu and her sister, Minh, are among 19,000 South Vietnamese girls who have been trained during the past year to defend themselves and kill Communist guerrillas.

Each received a month of training at the women's military school in Saigon, and spent a few weeks at a strategic hamlet in the Mekong River delta to learn the finer points.

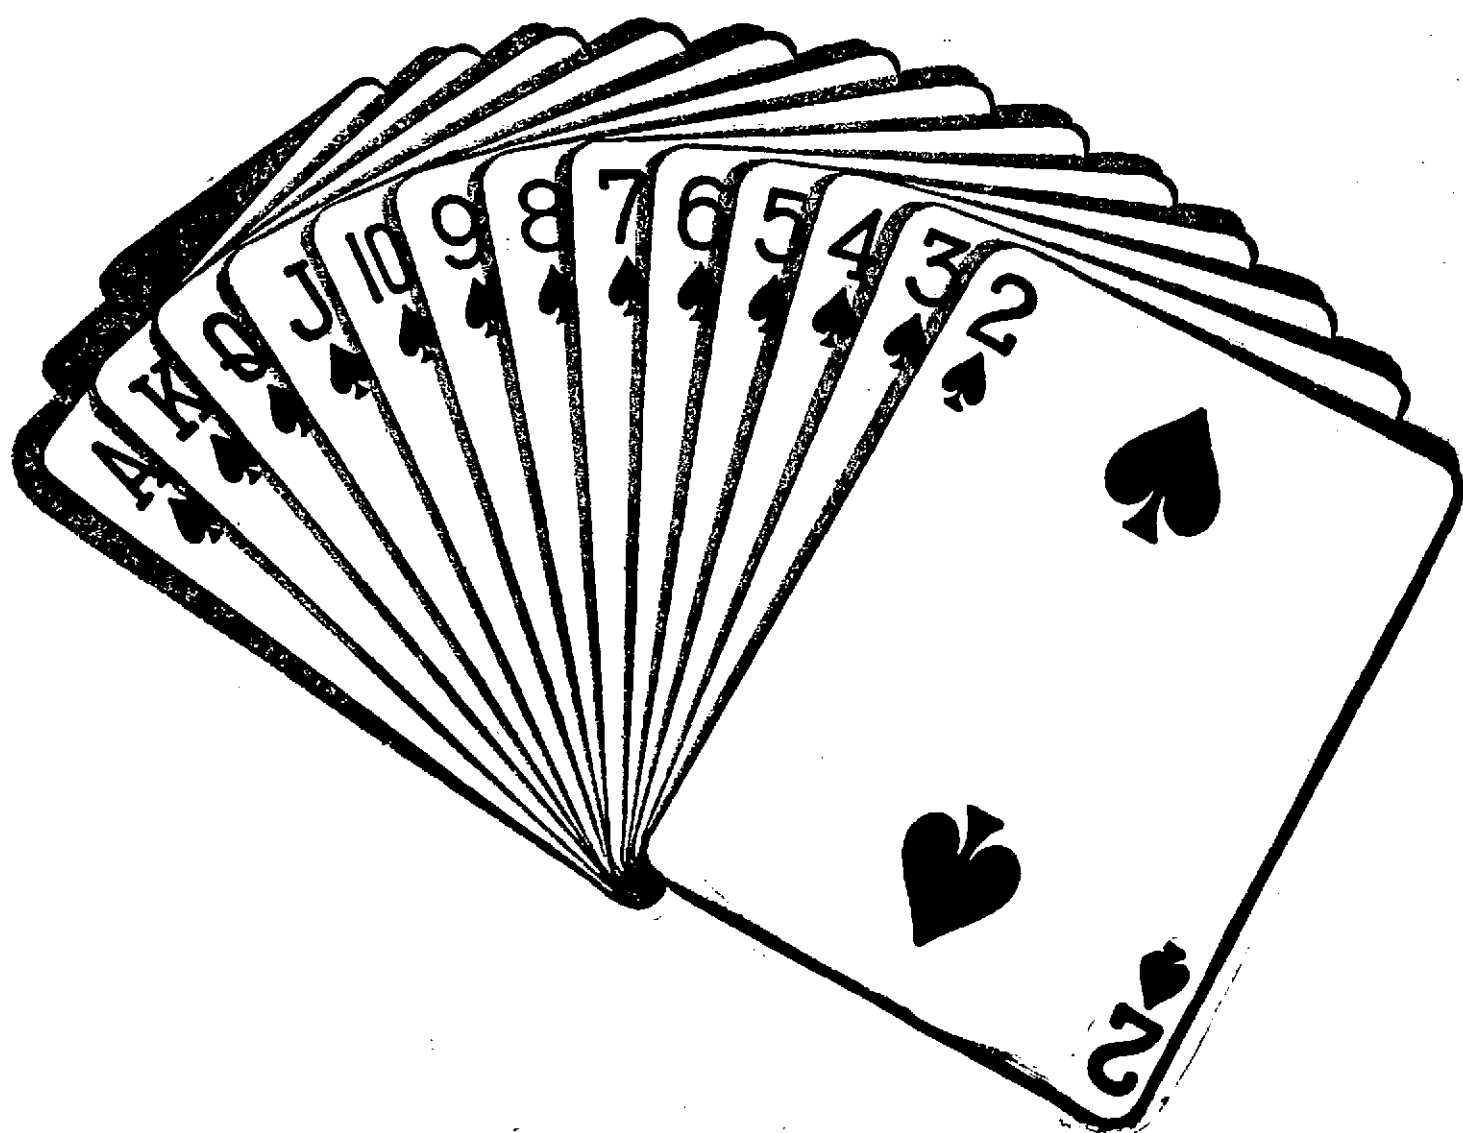

Women students who volunteer for military training receive special assistance from the Saigon government.

Several of the para-military girls have been killed or captured in Viet Cong ambushes. Combat training at the Thu Duc military school, complete with U.S. military advisors.

Among the trainees is Miss Ngo of South Viet Nam's first lady. The first lady, Mrs. Ngo Dinh Women's Corps, and has pushed Oanh Thi Le Thuy, 18, daughter Nhu, founded the Para-Military may be in the cards for at least to gain recognition for it as an authentic fighting organization.

Some of the girls have outshot their male counterparts, Vietnamese and American, on rifle and pistol ranges.

In training, the girls sleep in wooden bunks with straw mats. They work hard. Hand to hand combat training includes judo and bayonet drill. Some are qualified paratroopers.

trump hand

The newspaper advertiser bids for business from strength. Here are some of his trump cards. Audience: 90 million adults read a newspaper on an average day—about 86.4% of all U.S. households.

Attention: people like to read advertising in the newspaper, feel lost without it, overwhelmingly prefer a newspaper with advertising.

Confidence: people believe in newspaper advertising, consider it factual, accurate, and trustworthy. Advertisers agree, and last year had the confidence to invest $3.6 billion in newspaper space.

If you're an advertiser, why not deal yourself a strong hand? Use newspapers.

U of A Grant Is $400,000

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A $400,000 Biscoe Hindman Memorial Fund was established at the University of Arkansas today.

The late Biscoe Hindman established a trust fund with the Riggs National Bank on Washington, D.C., and the university was to receive whatever was left at the termination of the trust.

The Riggs National Bank was to make the transfer today.

Hindman's will, dated July 7, 1927, provided that the money for the university would be used for any permanent and useful purpose selected by the board of trustees.

The trust fund was concluded today, two years after Mrs. Hindman died.

Hindman already had set aside from the whole $250,000 for Helena, $50,000 for Little Rock and $100,000 for the state, Hindman was a native of Helena.

Chapter XXII

"Nancy did say there had been an emergency," Miss Hanniman reflected aloud.

Nancy wanted to faint. It was over, then — she was safe. Miss Hanniman was watching them. Thorne's affectionate look directed purposefully at Nancy, the girl's wide, relieved eyes fairly blessing Thorne. The import of their attitude was clear to the older woman. She had for some time thought this might be a match, and now she was certain of it, if she knew anything at all about love. And what a credit to Harbor to have an Assistant Chief marry one of their girls. But, though she wasn't as hard as she appeared, Miss Hanniman was not too soft, either, and some disciplinary action must be taken. She glanced at her watch.

"It's after three. Perhaps you'd better have a nap, Nancy, since your relief in Ward C has pretty well covered the day. Get back into uniform, be sure you're prompt for five o'clock lab demonstration, and keep in bounds tonight. You will, of course, forfeit your next day off."

Nancy rose. She could scarcely speak. "Thank you. You're very kind, Miss Hanniman. I'll always remember — after this — that I'm only an undergrad..." And she turned to Thorne.

"Run along, Nancy," he said. "I'll be calling you. I'll stay here and chat a bit with Miss Hanniman."

Nancy felt his eyes follow her to the door. They seemed still to be watching when she rode upstairs.

Thorne lingered just the correct number of minutes to polish off the scene with finesse, and then crossed directly to the main building. "I think I neglected to sign out yesterday," he said to the registrar. "Got yesterday's time sheets?"

A clerk produced them neatly stacked, and turned his back to continue his work. Thorne did not have to hunt for what he was sure he would find. The very last entry, in a bold legible hand, read: "Anders... 5:45 a.m."

Nancy was too weary to nap, too bewildered by the events and reactions of the day to do anything but sit in her room and wait for the five o'clock lab demonstration. It was incredible that she had lived so much in 24 hours. The experiences were emphasized in her memory; the hours were

Amendments, 2 Defeated Twice, Passes

By GEORGE F. BARTSCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Proposed constitutional amendments similar to two defeated twice by Arkansas voters will be among the three submitted by the state Legislature in the 1964 general election.

Coming up for a third consecutive time are proposals to increase city-county taxing power and to give constitutional officers a pay raise.

The third measure, a new one sponsored by the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, would authorize the legislature to create hospital and industrial districts larger than a city but smaller than a county. It replaces segregation measures submitted in 1960 and 1962.

The three measures earned their spots on the ballot by virtue of being the first to pass both the Senate and the House.

The pay-raise bill, HJR 13 by Pulaski County Rep. J. H. Cottrell Jr., and the AIDC bill, which also was introduced in the House, were adopted by the Senate Tuesday.

The House previously had adopted SJR 10, an administration measure introduced in the Senate by Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin, to raise from five to ten mills the property tax limit for both cities and counties for general operating purposes.

To make the increase more palatable, the amendment would repeal the 3-mill road tax.

The pay raise amendment also would abolish the state land office as a constitutional office simply by not including it in the measure.

The amendment would increase the salary of the governor from $10,000 to $18,000, the lieutenant governor from $2,500 to $3,600, the attorney general from $6,000 to $12,000 and the secretary of state, treasurer and auditor from $5,000 to $10,000.

The AIDC measure was slipped through ahead of a proposal by Sevier County Rep. George Davis to replace the county quorum courts with a 5-member county council.

County judges would have had to have secured approval from the councilmen for all purchases over $500.

The original measure would have given councilmen a $50 a month salary, but this was amended out Tuesday by Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton.

Harvey and Sen. Nathan Coulter of Nashville, who was handling the proposed amendment in the Senate, wanted to bring it to a vote immediately, although several senators objected because the measure was not on their desks.

As opposition to the amendment increased, Sen. J. Lee Bearden of Leachville moved that it be sent back to the Senate Committee on Constitutional Amendments.

Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff, another opponent, moved that both Davis' amendment and the AIDC proposal be sent back to the committee.

How could she get word to David that she was still here, safe? She could not risk sending him a message by anybody within the hospital. Nancy had the conviction that, amidst all the confusion, she would be watching every movement of a girl confined to bounds. She could not even steal off to the recreation that, amidst all the confusion, she would be watching every movement of a girl confined to bounds. She could not even steal off to the recreation that, amidst all the confusion, she would be watching every movement of a girl confined to bounds.

David was indeed beaten with worry by this time. From the moment Miss Peters had told him that Horton was out for the day and Talley would relieve, he had driven himself mercilessly in his work, hoping thereby to close out all fear for her welfare. She must be all right because if she'd been dismissed, surely she would communicate with him. No — she could not be safe. Her excuse couldn't have been accepted so easily. She must be waiting for him to step forward...

Dr. Cornish had found it necessary to restrain him that morning. "A little less anxiety, Anders," he said once.

They were at a pneumonia bedside. David spoke up about a matter he realized now had been on his mind for some time. "Don't you think, sir, that we're getting an unusual number of flu cases for this time of year?"

"Yes," Cornish agreed. "It's spreading. But most of the cases are mild. I hope they remain so. Of course we can never tell. But you, Anders — slow up. Take it easy."

When Nancy didn't appear after lunch, David was ferocious. He was a man with a wife and he didn't know where his wife was or what had happened to her.

The laboratory walls flung at him a faint echo of a quarrel with Nancy, weeks ago, years ago. It seemed humorous, now, unimportant.

Dr. Susan Page, in charge, came from behind her desk in the receiving room to greet David. She was not a physician but a Ph. D., a young woman of about 30, clear-eyed and always at ease with the men.

"Well, it's teacher's pet," she cried. "What has Dr. Cornish's fair-haired boy for us today?" (To Be Continued)

Ripe Olives Glamorize Versatile Sauce

Versatile is the word for "Zippy Olive Sauce." This heated-in-moments mixture of sour cream, handsome ripe olive wedges and lively seasonings may be served over green vegetables, or you may wish to spoon it over meat croquettes or poached or boiled fish. However you enjoy it, it's a sauce to enhance a favorite dish.

Hearty ripe olives give unique nut-like flavor and a glamorous look to many sauces, soups, vegetables, salads and sandwich fillings. And they are a "must" of course, on roasts, trays.

Zippy Olive Sauce

- 1/2 cup ripe olives
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 teaspoons instant minced onion
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper

Cut olives into wedges. Blend remaining ingredients in saucepan; add olives. Heat through. Serve over poached or boiled fish. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Would Carry on Political Activities

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Former French Premier Georges Bidault was reported today trying to get the right to carry on limited political activity along with asylum in West Germany.

Bavarian authorities, who will decide whether Bidault stays in West Germany, were expected to rebuff his maneuver and give him the choice of staying on their terms or being expelled.

Even limited political activity would mean Bidault would continue to work to overthrow a close ally of West Germany, French President Charles de Gaulle.

Bavarian officials have demanded that Bidault, 6, political leader of the terrorist Secret Army, renounce all political activity in return for asylum.

A Bavarian official announced Tuesday night that Bidault had decided to make the necessary written request for asylum. But Oscar Stammeler the German journalist acting as Bidault's spokesman, said today the French underground chief had made no decision on the German terms.

The newspapers reported from Paris that De Gaulle's government has no objection to German asylum for its foe provided he refrains completely from politics.

The substitute motion was adopted, but a few minutes later Sen. J. Ed Lightle of Searcy moved that the AIDC measure be pulled back from committee and brought to a vote.

The Senate granted his request and approved the amendment 28-0.

Each body submitted three proposed amendments. The other two Senate measures would have let cities and counties levy a 5-mill tax for curb, gutter and sidewalk improvements, leaving present tax money free for other purposes and would have granted persons 65 or older a property tax exemption on the first $5,000 of homesteads valued at $10,000 or less.
